

References

- Mok, C. H. B. (2023). Internal Family Systems Therapy (IFS): A Compassionate Approach to Therapy. Counselling & Psychotherapy Review Singapore, 1(01), 29-34.
- Redfern, E. E. (2023). Transitioning to Internal Family Systems Therapy: A Companion for Therapists and Practitioners. Taylor & Francis.
- de Boer, K. O. C. (2022). INTEGRATING INTERNAL FAMILY SYSTEMS THERAPY INTO A PHASE-BASED APPROACH FOR COMPLEX TRAUMA (Doctoral dissertation, School of Health Sciences, Swinburne University of Technology).
- Wonder, N. (2022). Making the unconscious conscious in IFS consultation of sexual abuse, sexual offending, and sexual compulsivity cases. In Internal Family Systems Therapy (pp. 109-123). Routledge.
- Fitzgerald, M., & Barton, C. (2021). Self-Qualities and Self-Leadership as Pathways Linking Childhood Maltreatment to Depression and Relationship Quality. Contemporary Family Therapy, 1-11.
- Lingren, K. (2022). Bias: How IFS consultation can increase awareness and reduce harm. In Internal Family Systems Therapy (pp. 124-138). Routledge.
- Ederly, R. (2023). Disorganized Attachment Style And The Moderating Effect of The Inner Loving Parent on Closeness Terror: An Internal Family Systems (IFS) Approach. Psychiatry and Behavioral Health, 1-5.
- Catanzaro, J. (2022). Trusting Self to Heal. Internal Family Systems Therapy: Supervision and Consultation.
- Booth, F. (2022). IFS consultation: Fostering the Self-led therapist. In Internal Family Systems Therapy (pp. 193-208). Routledge.